

Did You Know

By Pat J. Kirwin

THAT Circleville was filled with horror in December, 1877, when a new kind of racket—"body snatching," made itself felt in the city. In one week of this month, six bodies were removed from the burial grounds in High-st cemetery and never recovered, newspapers of the time report.

Editors of the local newspapers expressed the belief that the "body snatching" was the work of students in a Columbus medical college, although their opinions were never borne out by facts.

In describing a "body snatching" job on the night of Dec. 18, 1877, when two corpses were taken from High-st cemetery, The Herald related:

"The robbers dug down to the coffin and removed the outside boards covering it. Then commencing about 18 inches from the head of the corpse, they drilled 15 one-inch holes across the top of the coffin. By removing two screws at the head, it was an easy matter to take off a portion of the coffin's top and remove the body."

That Jane Coombs, one of the finest actresses ever to appear on the American stage, played a title role in a presentation of "Romeo and Juliet," here in Peck's Hall in November, 1877. Miss Coombs was the most talented actress of the 1870-80 era.

THAT a new industry, which went unharmed in Circleville for more than 25 years, was finally discovered by a poor laborer in December, 1877. With its discovery by John Youngman, the "grease catching" business along Hargus creek was born and became a source of a handsome pecuniary profit to those engaged in it.

Operators of this business, of which Mr. Youngman became the outstanding member, in one year realized more than $2,000 profits, simply removed the grease which flowed into Hargus creek and condensed it into a new product which was resold much of it to the owners of the slaughter houses.

Although possibly an exception to the rule, Youngman developed his "grease-catching" business to the extent of realizing at least $10 a day from it. Here's how most "grease-catchers" did it:

They dammed up the waters of the sewer running from the slaughter houses to the creek and raised the banks on both sides to prevent overflowing. A cut-off at the head of a pool regulated the stage of the water. The grease and fatty particles from the "lard-house" flowed into this pool, the former rising to the top of the water where it was skimmed off and placed in barrels.

Although of an inferior quality, the grease readily sold for one and one-half cents per pound, the pork-packers themselves buying most of it. Newspaper editors estimated that thousands of dollars were lost in the preceding 25 years when the grease went unused.

That "box after box of the finest cigars disappeared and the continued 'pop-pop' of champagne bottles sounded like rifle practice," on the initial trip of a Scioto Valley railway train from Circleville to Columbus on Dec. 28, 1877. The old Scioto Valley, now the Norfolk and Western, made its first run from Portsmouth to Columbus three days after Christmas. The first train made somewhat of a record for its day, leaving the Scioto-co seat at 7:35 a. m. and arriving at the capital at 12:35 p. m. Stopping in Circleville the train took on several of the better known citizens, G. W. Gregg, John Groce, Col. S. A. Moore, W. Marshall Anderson, Judge Courtwright, W. B. Marfield, Clarence Logsdon, 30, of St. Paul, Madison-twp, was in critical condition in Berger hospital, Saturday, suffering from a fractured skull. Logsdon was conscious only part of the time.

The cars of Orley Clarey, Ashville Route 1, and Harley Cline, also of near Ashville, crashed where the Walnut-creek-pk meets a by-road near the Bell residence. Cline's car, a Whippet, was driven east on the by-road by his son, Kenneth "Tubby" Cline, who was alone. In Clarey's car were Mr. and Mrs. Clarey and Logsdon. They were traveling on the Walnut-creek-pk, north.

Clarey's car turned over. Logsdon was rushed to Berger hospital where he is under the care of Dr. L. C. Schiff, Ashville.

OTHERS TREATED
Mrs. Clarey was treated by Dr. R. S. Hosler for scalp and leg lacerations while Clarey's injuries were superficial. Cline was cut and bruised but was not badly hurt. Dr. Hosler reported.

The crash happened about 5:30 p. m. and was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Bob Armstrong. Both cars were badly wrecked.

Dr. Sproat died instantly when his automobile struck the rear of a straw-wagon driven by Charles Bush. Sproat's wife and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore, Chillicothe, were also in the crash but were not badly hurt.

Samuel McCoy Sproat was born Sept. 10, 1889 at Chillicothe, son of Benjamin Franklin Sproat and Eliza McCoy Sproat. His father, long a leading druggist was a member of a pioneer family and a life-long student of Ross-co history and folk lore.

Dr. Sproat was educated in the public school of Chillicothe and the Ohio Military Institute at Cincinnati. He attended one year at Ohio State University and then went to the University of Michigan, obtaining the degrees of Bachelor of A. S. and Doctor of Medicine.

After graduation, Dr. Sproat went to San Francisco, where he was an interne in the Southern Pacific hospital. He then accepted a position as division surgeon of the Western Pacific and had charge of the railroad hospital at Portola, Calif., where he remained until he enlisted in the army at Camp Kearney, Calif., in January, 1918.

IN MEDICAL CORPS

He was called overseas in July, 1918, and served as first lieutenant in the medical corps attached to the 23rd Engineers. After his return from overseas duty, he was mustered out at Camp Sherman, in June, 1919. He then returned to his practice at Portola, where he remained until 1925 when he went to Pontiac, Mich., practicing there for one year. He then went to Chillicothe where he confined his practice to surgery until the time of his death.

Dr. Sproat was a communicant of St. Paul's Episcopal church, a member of the Scottish Rite and of the Knights Templar, and of the Shrine Lodge, a member of the American Legion and of the Sunset club. He was a member of the Phi Beta Phi medical fraternity and a fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

Legislature Represents Many Lines

Business, Professional, Church and College Life Represented in Two Houses.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—Ohio's 91st General Assembly, elected at the November 6 elections, will represent a cross-section of the business, professional, and even the church life of the state.

The new elected members listed approximately different occupations and they ranged from everything to college student to college president. The latter was W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville college in Greene-co while both the senate and the house of representatives will have a college student in their midst.

It appeared also that the Ohio Federation of Labor would have little trouble in having its legislation introduced. Ora Chapman, president of the organization, was elected a representative by the voters of Montgomery-co.

2 MAYORS NAMED

Two women also were elected to seats in the general assembly and they listed themselves simply as "home managers." Two mayors of Ohio cities also were listed.

Kingston Native in Important Role; Lives in Euclid, Law Teacher in School.

Cleveland newspapers recently carried an excellent photograph of Judge Stanley L. Orr, formerly of Kingston and a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Orr of that village, who recently was elected president of the Citizens' league.

DAVEY, POULSON STUDY CABINET; RENNELS DECLINES SECRETARY JOB

Farm Income Pleases FCA Head

Professor William I. Myers

A Long Island farm

Ploughing on a midwestern farm "Brain Trust" William I. Myers is one New Dealer who is taking particular delight in statistics that America's farm income this year will exceed 1933's total by $1,000,000,000. Professor Myers is governor of the Farm Credit Administration which pumps credit for seeds, machinery, mortgages and other agricultural debts through the proper channels to aid America's farmers. For generations Dr. Myers' ancestors have tilled the soil in western New York, and the Cornell professor prefers farm life. He had a national reputation as an expert in farm management and finance.

After stating that he appreciated the honor of being offered the secretaryship, which came as a "complete surprise," Rennels said he feels he "can be of greater service to Ohio Democracy" by holding his present job.

Unless they voluntarily step down and this was considered improbable, Davey will find two White cabinet hold-overs on his hands when he takes office next Jan. 14. They will be Dr. B. O. Skinner, education director, and T. S. Brindle, public works director.

Pressure may be brought upon the pair to resign and give the new governor a free hand in naming an entire new cabinet, as soon as he takes office, according to a report that has gained wide circulation in political circles.

JURY HEARS MORE OF BERN MYSTERY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—The romance and tragedy of Paul Bern, motion picture producer, and Jean Harlow, star of the silver screen, had been dug up from the past and made public, at least partially, today.

The 1934 Los Angeles grand jury, emphatically insisting it had no intention of re-opening the investigation of the suicide of Bern in 1932, declared its present probe had only to do with expenditures made by the district attorney's office.

The original probe, conducted by the 1932 grand jury in strict secrecy, was held at a suite at the swank Ambassador hotel here. The renting of the suite for the conduct of the investigation was ordered by the foreman of the 1932 grand jury, it was said.

TESTIMONY BRIEF
However, the probe did bring out that although Miss Harlow was questioned at the time of her husband's death, which was officially classified as suicide, the testimony was so brief, according to one investigator, that no transcript of it was made.

The re-opening of the case did, however, make public for the first time, evidence taken at the investigation shortly after Bern's body, with a bullet hole in the head, was found in front of a mirror at his home here.

It was revealed for the first time, that at least one important witness at the initial investigation, was convinced that Bern, who was

Local police have been asked to watch for Grace Abbe and Anise Phelps, both 16 of Columbus, who have been reported as runaways.

Butler-co Man Mentioned For Finance Positions; Status of Skinner, Brindle Discussed

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—Speculation about the cabinet appointments soon to be announced by Gov.-elect Martin L. Davey, Democrat, today kept capital political tongues wagging.

The latest report is that Quincy A. Davis, chairman of the state tax commission, may be named director of finance, a position Clarence Burk, New London, holds in the cabinet of Gov. George White.

Davis' home is in Hamilton. He is aligned with the Butler-co Democratic faction recognized by the new regime at state headquarters over the old county organization. He was said to be making a strong bid for the cabinet post.

HELPED BY POULSON

Davey was expected to announce most of his cabinet appointments by the end of next week. He and Francis Poulson, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, will devote their full time to the matter after they have filed a statement of campaign expenditures as required by law.

Don K. R. of Cleveland newspaper and publicity director at Democratic state headquarters, turned down the job as secretary to the new governor tendered him by Davey. He prefers to remain in his present position.

After stating that he appreciated the honor of being offered the secretaryship, which came as a "complete surprise," Rennels said he feels he "can be of greater service to Ohio Democracy" by holding his present job.

Unless they voluntarily step down and this was considered improbable, Davey will find two White cabinet hold-overs on his hands when he takes office next Jan. 14. They will be Dr. B. O. Skinner, education director, and T. S. Brindle, public works director.

Pressure may be brought upon the pair to resign and give the new governor a free hand in naming an entire new cabinet, as soon as he takes office, according to a report that has gained wide circulation in political circles.

2 NOT TO RETIRE

Neither Skinner nor Brindle need accede to such demand, if it should be made by the new administration, unless they wish to do so. Their terms of office are specified in the constitution, and

FLAMES HIT COUNTY TOWN

Atlanta Building Destroyed; Chickens, Rabbits Also Burned To Death.

Fire swept Atlanta, Perry-twp, late Friday with a result that two barns, a chicken house, 400 chickens and 30 rabbits were destroyed. John Vaughn, one of two victims of the flames, also suffered a badly burned hand while trying to rescue his rabbits from the burning building.

The New Holland fire department was summoned but too late to prevent loss.

The fire is believed to have started in the chicken house belonging to Mr. Vaughn. It swept that building then spread to another barn belonging to Vaughn and to the barn of Charles Drake on an adjoining lot.

Drake, a poultry dealer, had just bought the 400 chickens Friday. His loss was estimated over $300 while Vaughn's was believed about that figure. Drake had just installed nine new coops in his chicken house. They, too, were destroyed.

Vaughn's automobile was safely removed from his barn. His chickens, also escaped. Vaughn's buildings were insured while Drake's, the property of Harry Stevenson, near Ashville, were reported not covered.

THE ROMANCE OF PEACE

Joseph Fort Newton has said, "We are beginning to realize that peace, the creation of peace, is not a cold, negative, bloodless thing, but a thrilling, exciting adventure of romance."

It is not enough, as William Morris said, to preach peace by talking of the horrors of war; for men are so made that they prefer horrors to dullness. We must persuade them—nay, we must show them, that peace means a fuller and more glorious life, if we would make them desire it passionately.

It is not a case of destroying—or even of inhibiting—the fighting instinct of humanity, but of harnessing that instinct to the good of mankind, turning its guns on the enemies of man, the dangers that menace, the evils that defile and not upon man itself.

The Christian church was founded by the Prince of Peace. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH ARMISTICE SUNDAY?

Teaching Children War and Peace

While millions of boys and girls in the public schools of certain European countries are being indoctrinated with nationalism and compelled to go through warlike salutes and recitations, in some of the Latin-American lands, considerable progress has been made in the inculcation of generous goodwill toward people in foreign nations.

In Italy, under the system of instruction that accompanied the recent introduction of new textbooks, children approach both geography and history from the angle of Italian supremacy. The ancient war-like days of the Roman Empire are lauded and held up as an ideal. In Germany it is said that they are committees to ferret out all youth who have been guilty of slowness in manifest in military fervor.

Already however in Latin-American countries, the ideal is being realized of making textbooks serve international truth and understanding. Progress in removing inflammatory sections from history volumes has been shown in Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Argentina and Uruguay.

Lesson for November 11

THE CHRISTIAN CITIZEN

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 5:13-26.

GOLDEN TEXT—Then said Jesus unto him, Put up again thy sword into his place: for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword.—Matthew 26:52.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Law in One Word.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's One Law.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Be a Peacemaker.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Thinking Peace Instead of War.

Doubtless the thought of the lesson committee was to take advantage of this memorial occasion and inculcate in the hearts of the youth the spirit of peace which grows out of a heart of love. It should be borne in mind that this value can only be a practical reality as the people are brought into a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ. Love is the fruit of the Spirit made operative in the heart of the regenerate.

Paul, having shown in chapters three and four of the epistle that the believer is free from the law as a means of justification, in our present lesson makes the practical application of the doctrine. The divine method of doing away with war is to secure the regeneration of individuals.

1. Christian Freedom (vv. 13-15).

1. It is not an occasion to the flesh (v. 13). Liberty is not license. The notion that when one is free from the law he is free from constraint is wickedly erroneous. License of the flesh means not merely the indulgence of the flesh in actual sinning, but in the expression of a self-centered life.

2. By love serve one another (vv. 13-15).

Freedom from the Mosaic law means slavery to the law of love. Love thus becomes the fulfillment of the law.

II. Walking in the Spirit (vv. 16-18).

This discloses the secret of how a life of service to another can be lived. Walking in the Spirit results in:

1. Loving service to others (v. 13).

2. Victory over the flesh (vv. 16, 17).

By flesh is meant the corrupt nature of man expressing itself in the realm of sense and self. The renewed man has two natures, between which is going on a mortal conflict. The Christian must choose between good and evil. Notwithstanding the reality of this deadly conflict, victory is sure if one chooses the good.

III. The Works of the Flesh (vv. 19-21).

By the works of the flesh is meant the operation of the carnal nature. The one who chooses to live according to the impulses and desires of his natural heart will be practicing the following sins:

1. Sensuality (v. 19).

The sins enumerated here are practiced in the body, and are:

a. Fornication (the word adultery is omitted from the best manuscripts). Fornication includes all sexual sins in the married and unmarried state. b. Uncleanness, which includes all sensual sins, open or secret, in thought or deed.

c. Lasciviousness, which means the wanton, reckless indulgence of the shameful practices of the flesh.

2. Irrigelling (v. 20). These acts take place in the realm of the spirit, and are a. Idolatry, the worshiping of idols. b. Witchcraft or sorcery, all dealing with the occult, such as magical arts, spiritism, necromancy.

3. Sins of the temper (vv. 20-21). These take place in the sphere of the mind, and are a. Hatred, b. Variance, including all strife and contention. c. Emulations, including all types of jealousy. d. Wrath, meaning bursts of passion. e. Seditions, which mean factions in the state. f. Heresies, meaning factions in the church. g. Envyings, h. Murders.

4. Sins of excess (v. 21). Drunkenness, indulgence in intoxicating liquors. b. Revellings. Acts of dissipation under the influence of liquor.

All who practice such sins shall be excluded from the Kingdom of God (1 Cor. 6:10).

IV. The Fruit of the Spirit (vv. 22-24).

This indicates action in the realm of life. It is the product of the Holy Spirit indwelling the believer.

1. Love to God and man.

2. Joy—glad-heartedness because of what God has done.

3. Peace with God and man.

4. Longsuffering, taking insult and injury without murmuring.

5. Gentleness, meaning kindness to others.

6. Goodness, doing good to others.

7. Faith, believing God and committing everything to him.

8. Meekness, which essentially means submission to God.

9. Temperance, self-control in all things.

Against those who thus live, there is no law.

What Constructive Peace Programs Are Being Promoted Today?

The world wide sweep of the Christian church is and should be a great influence for goodwill, neighborliness and racial understanding. The Christian Endeavor movement is a leading influence among youth for better understanding and mutual appreciation. The Y. M. C. A. Boy Scouts and other similar movements as well as a number of professional and scientific groups perform a continuous service in creating bonds of friendship. The church is probably the greatest influence for peace and by strengthening its power in all lands the peace idea would be able the employer of the witness, did not commit suicide but was murdered.

Earl Davis, gardener at the Bern-Harlow home was the witness who insisted Bern's death was not suicide.

When investigators asked Davis the direct question: "Do you think Mr. Bern committed suicide?" the gardener answered: "I do not think so. I knew him too well. He had no reason to commit suicide. I have thought it was murder from the very beginning."

Davis then went on to reveal how he had discovered a small pool of blood near the swimming pool, in front of Bern's favorite chair on the morning of September 5, 1932, the day when the death was revealed.

The witness also told the investigators, at the time, that he had discovered other bloodspots near the swimming pool, and a broken cognac glass.

BERN NOT HAPPY

Another witness at the secret investigation was Irene Harrison, Bern's secretary. She testified she did not believe her employer was happy in his marriage to the glamorous screen beauty.

Miss Harrison's testimony, read from the transcript, was: "Mr. Bern didn't look particularly happy at the wedding reception."

The transcript also revealed that Miss Harrison had testified:

"Jean bombarded him with letters most of them with reports of her success. The correspondence was mostly on her side. After Jean's return their friendship developed into something more intimate. By intimate I do not mean the use of the word as is meant in Hollywood."

The transcript of the evidence given by the gardener, at another point, revealed that Bern and his step-father-in-law, Mario Bello, were not friendly.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Yates and nephew, David Yates, are week-end guests of Mrs. Yates' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Marion of Hamilton.

CORN CROP LOWEST SINCE 1881, REPORT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The corn harvest, estimated by the crop reporting board at 1,381,527,000 bushels, is 45,000,000 bushels less than the forecast a month ago, and probably will be the smallest crop since 1881.

The board's report said that, as the food situation is helped by the improved prospects for potatoes and by the less important improvement in other late food crops, so the acute shortage of feed, forage and pastureage has been partially relieved in some sections by the mildness of the fall.

This has made it impossible for farmers to conserve supplies for winter use by keeping a large proportion of their stock on pastureage than is customary at this season of the year.

"Recently many requests have been made to this committee to institute a campaign throughout the valley to request our citizens to refuse to have business dealings with the merchants and manufacturers of Columbus who by their passive action have permitted these delays in the construction of the sewage disposal plant at Columbus. We have also been requested to start a campaign among the property owners and residents adjoining the river to institute suit for damages against the city of Columbus with the thought that these additional suits would hasten the action in the matter of construction of the plant; however, our committee has delayed action feeling that we were perhaps too impatient.

THE GAL WITH THE HOUR-CLASS FIGURE THAT MAKES EVERY SECOND COUNT!!

THE spirit of the nation-wide humanitarian work of the American Red Cross is typified in the 1934 poster drawn by the well-known artist, Lawrence Wilbur. The Red Cross nurse, shown protecting a small boy who is in distress, is illustrative of the role of the organization in rushing relief to victims of disaster—whether storm, epidemic, earthquake, fire, flood or other type of catastrophe. During the past year the Red Cross sent material aid to victims in 103 disasters, giving assistance to 119,000 persons.

This is but one example of service given by the Red Cross. It also serves in health conservation, through its Public Health Nursing Services employing more than 750 nurses; in safety and accident prevention, through its Life Saving and First Aid instruction; in aid to veterans and service men through its Home Service work; and in cementing the youth of the nation, through Junior Red Cross, into a national society devoted to preparing them in fitness for service, good citizenship and world friendship.

The 1934 Poster invites all men and women to join the Red Cross during the annual enrollment, so that they may participate in this vast humanitarian enterprise. Your local Chapter will welcome you as a member.

Male Vs. Female

THE fighting spirit of the male animal, according to a noted scientific observer, keeps the world in turmoil. These and similar conclusions were presented to a recent meeting of the American Society of Naturalists. It was stated that among all back-boned animals, including men, apes, dogs, etc., the fighting spirit of the male is a very disturbing element.

But in groups of insects ruled by the females, there is a smooth and peaceful form of activity. It was added, that if the female elements managed human society, life would be comfortable, but dull and unprogressive.

The non-scientific observer would probably agree that men are much more inclined toward fighting than women. Practically all armies throughout world history have been organized from the men. Somehow the women seem to have the sense to see that fighting does not accomplish results. Yet women apparently have as bitter passions and as strong dislikes and hates as men. It is frequently remarked, in regard to bitterness left behind by wars, that women cherish such harsh feelings even more than the men.

As to the idea that a society led by women would be dull and unprogressive, many will doubt that theory. They will find the women very keenly interested in social reforms. Innumerable women gather weekly in clubs to consider such progressive measures, but it would be hard to get as many men out to such meetings.

The community can not progress without the work of both sexes. The old idea that the men should do the governing, and that the women should stay at home and keep house and look after the children, is thoroughly discredited now. Not many people would care to go back to that idea.

Only one race of people pays its war debts to Uncle Sam and that's the Finnish.

And in cannibal regions, one man's meat is another man's person.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Mae West returns to the gay Naughty Nineties in her latest starring picture for Paramount, "Belle of the Nineties," coming Sunday, Monday and Tuesday to the Cliftona Theatre. Mae West, herself, wrote the original story and screen play for "Belle of the Nineties," and Leo McCarey directed the picture. The star introduces several new, typically Western songs written for her by Sam Coslow and Arthur Johnston.

Three leading men play opposite Mae West in this film. They are Roger Pryor, John Mack Brown and John Miljan. Katherine De Mille, Warren Hymer, Stuart Holmes and Duke Ellington and band are featured in the supporting cast.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

SYNOPSIS

The depression did not alter life at "Hawthorn," the comfortable, hospitable home of the Philip Rutledges. Caroline, their lovely daughter, entertained lavishly and the younger set swarmed there. Mrs. Rutledge spends most of her time abroad and her husband practically lives at the club. Following her mother's return from one of her trips, Caroline gives a party. The pampered Alva notes how capably her daughter has arranged everything and wishes she could feel happy about it. Caroline's parents disapprove of their daughter's fiancé, Howard Dunsworth. Years ago, Howard's father bought property from Philip saying he wanted it for a leather factory and instead he went into the soap business in competition with Philip. The families have been enemies ever since. At the height of the party, Philip arrives home with the news that Henry Dunsworth has ruined him. Howard seems genuinely shocked. Discussing the effect of the distressing news, Howard tells Caroline: "If we marry, my father will cut me off and if I know you it wouldn't please you any more to be poor than it would me." "Is that what you think of me?" Caroline flashes back. "Well, you are wrong. I'd have been happy with you anywhere before you said that." With a scornful gesture, she hands him his engagement ring. After Howard leaves, Caroline is broken-hearted. Another crushing blow falls when her father tells her "Hawthorn" is no longer theirs.

CHAPTER V

There was something in the way Alva Rutledge looked at her speechless but irritated him, stirred the self-pity underlying his seemingly rational acceptance of his situation. It was an accusing look and in reaction to it he was driven to cruelty.

"We're leaving, at once," he told her with a bluntness that brought a protest from Caroline.

"But Father, why?"

"I've made a deal with the mortgagor. It costs money to foreclose. We split it. He wants immediate possession. It's spring-summer rental—you know—the lake inures him."

His short sentences were so many knife stabs to Caroline, who loved her home with a conscious, all-encompassing feeling that made every stick and stone on the place dear to her.

Hawthorn House, named for its beautiful hawthorn hedges, was not so much a part of Alva's life. She was thinking of Philip. He had been weak to shield them until it came to this. It was his weakness that was directing their lives now.

The accusing look left her eyes, but tenderness did not replace it. Philip saw her expression grow blank as her thoughts became guarded.

Alva knew, in that moment, with a clarity beyond denial, that it had never been the man he was that she loved, only the outwardly agreeable, distinguished-looking man of family traditions and financial power.

It was this then, that had been the intangible void in their married life—the real reason why they had spent so much time apart. Poor Philip—only a shell.

Her eyes fell away from his. It was only a shell she had wanted. A handsome, pleasant shell.

Caroline got up during the silence that befell them and walked to the row of windows through which bright sunshine flooded the gray breakfast room.

She threw a window open, stood looking at an old gnarled apple tree alive with blossoms and bees, echoing beyond count precious memories of her childhood.

Philip, launched into his course of cruelty, now that he knew himself a failure, was unparading of those he had so benignly sought to protect by silence.

An auction of the furnishings will salvage a few more dollars for us," he was saying. "There was no need of the servants—it's down to that, the cost of their food, I mean. We can pack our own belongings."

And I didn't want them about, listening and chattering behind our backs."

Alva, who had traveled so much, and packed so little, was wondering dully what they would take on the trip—or was it a trip? Where were they going?

"Pack!" she repeated rapidly. "Everything you don't want to sell."

"Everything in this house will be any good to us in... in the new place. You can look it over and decide for yourself."

"Where... where is it?" Alva asked weakly.

Philip was suddenly evasive, repentant of his impulses to wound her. "It's a small house that's left to us," he answered, "a very small house."

she could not be turned out of her home to live in a shanty. Caroline sought to soothe and reassure her but Alva pushed her away and continued her bitter reproaches of Philip.

In desperation Caroline turned to him pleadingly. "Surely it isn't so bad as you're letting her think, is it Father?"

"The house is not a shanty," he admitted, "but the rest is true enough. We're practically penniless so far as anything else goes."

"But it can't be for long," Caroline insisted. "Why, we're not that kind of people! I mean we're used to money—the people you know, Father—your connections in the business world—they mean money. You can make another fortune."

1934 Bad for Hay Fever Sufferers

Very Few Escaped Its Many Discomforts During Past Season

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

NOT VERY long ago I wrote about hay fever, pointing out that special injections of a prepared vaccine have proved in many cases to be the ideal treatment for this annoying affliction. I advised all sufferers to consult their doctors about this treatment.

Because this has been an unusually severe season for hay fever sufferers I am again writing on this subject. I do so to stress the importance of receiving treatment at the proper time. Few persons who are sensitive to certain pollens have escaped the discomforts of hay fever this year. Just why this is so is difficult to explain, but it is probably due to certain unusual climatic and atmospheric conditions.

Dr. Copeland

Occasionally an attack is confused with asthma. It does resemble asthma in that the sufferer has great difficulty in breathing. Victims of hay fever, too, are often sensitive to asthma.

Seek Underlying Cause

As I have stated before, hay fever is due to a "sensitivity" to a plant, pollen or protein substance found in wearing apparel, house furnishings or food. On exposure to the sensitive substance, the sufferer complains of itching nose and violent attacks of sneezing. The discomfort may be quite severe and confine the sufferer to bed.

The hay fever victims should make every effort to determine the underlying cause of the affliction. By this I mean they should try to find out the exact substance to which they are sensitive. This is accomplished by injecting small amounts of the extracts of pollens and other suspected substances under the skin. The local reaction that follows indicates the presence or absence of sensitivity to the substance injected.

Once the offending substance is determined, relief may be obtained in most cases. Of course, the easiest method would be by change of climate during the hay fever season, but this method of escape is not available to all. But pretty definite protection is afforded by it.

Take Treatments Now
This consists of injecting an extract of the pollen, or other offending substance, in graduated doses, until "immunity" or protection against the sensitive substance is established. It is advisable to use this procedure at least a month before the expected time of the attack and it should be repeated every year. The relief obtained is only temporary. It is now the opinion of many specialists that more successful results would be obtained if the injections were given over a prolonged period of time. This is the so-called "perennial form" of treatment advised for severe cases of hay fever.

If you are a sufferer from hay fever consult with your physician now. Do not wait until next year when the hay fever season appears. Since many complicating infections and disorders, it is wise to have a thorough physical overhauling. By doing this you will maintain good health generally, and ward off further severe attacks of hay fever.

The "Texas Leaguer"
A "Texas leaguer" is defined in Webster as a fly that falls too far out to be handled by an infielder and too close in for an outfielder. The term is evidently derived from the Texas Baseball League, but the date and circumstances are obscure.

Longest Session of Congress
The longest session of congress, last 354 days, occurred during the World war period. It was a meeting of the Sixty-sixth congress, and convened on December 3, 1917, not adjourning until November 21, 1918. This record meeting followed the special session called by President Wilson on April 2, 1917, to declare war on Germany.

Used for Logwood
Logwood, the heart-wood of a tropical tree, is imported for the dye industry, the extract being used in red dye and in weighting silk.

TIGERS BEATEN 32-0

London Shows Best Team But is Handed Big Advantage by Officiating; Tigers Show Passing Offense But Fail To Cross Goal.

Penalized 15 yards on the first play of the game and thereafter receiving anything but their share of the 'breaks' from Officials Kolb, King and Carlisle, the Tigers went down to defeat by a 32-0 score at London, Friday, in the wind-up of a disastrous grid year.

Through the entire season the Tigers scored one touchdown, that against Bexley, and failed to even come close to defeating anyone.

Columbus Academy, Lancaster, Grandview, Marysville, Westerville, Delaware, Bexley and London laid back the ears of the locals.

London scored in the early minutes of the first period with a 15-yard penalty helping the cause of the Madison-co crew. A pass good for 16 yards and two end runs put Slattery over for the first goal. The kick failed.

HELD ON FOOT LINE

The Tigers held the Londonites on the one foot line at the outset of the second period and took the ball. A pass to Osborne gained 26, but again the Tigers were penalized 15 yards. Speakman was forced to kick after this penalty but the Tigers again forced London to punt. Two passes from Coleman to Grant made two first downs and put the leather on the London 23 where Tiger plays stopped clicking. London took the ball at that spot and marched straight down the field for No. 2, Holloway going over.

Near the end of the first half Speakman ran the kickoff from the 25 to the 46 yard stripe before big George Roth hurled a pass clear down the field to Fred Grant who was spilled on the 12-yard mark. Two plays failed to gain before a pass was intercepted on the sight.

The Tigers received at the outset of the third period and another pass was intercepted on the 22. It didn't take London long to register with a pass, Meadows to Holloway, doing the work and the score was 18-0.

A series of plays which followed London's recovery of a high pass from center gave the Londonites another touchdown in the third quarter with a pass from Ridenour to Meadows the means. A place-kick was good for the point.

London made it 2-0 early in the fourth period when Greer, a sub, went for a touchdown. Holloway kicked the goal making the score 32-0.

The waning minutes of the fourth period found Walter Osborne, who holds the distinction of scoring Circleville's only touchdown this year, heading toward the sidelines after taking a snack at a London player. The blow also cost 25 yards.

Local fans who witnessed the game said the officiating was the poorest the Tigers have had to face this year, and it is a fact there has been plenty which was not up to snuff.

2 BIG GAMES IN OHIO TODAY

State-Chicago and Navy-Notre Dame To Draw Share of National Interest.

By International News Service
Although enlivened a scorefold by the 'big-time' Ohio State-Chicago and Notre Dame-Navy clashes this afternoon, the 1934 football season in Ohio was slowly dying today.

Four teams, Bowling Green, Findlay, Hiram and Holbrook, will moth-ball their uniforms after today's clashes and join little Rio Grande's squad in the limbo of the idle.

Their retirement for the 1934 season brought home the fact that all other college teams in the state have only two or three games yet to play, counting today's encounters.

But, inversely, interest was mounting as the season waned for these November afternoons were saved by most schools for traditional foes.

There was even something more at stake at Bowling Green's game with Ohio Northern. The B-G squad will attempt to stop a Polar Bear machine that has not been defeated, tied or scored upon in 1934.

A major portion of the interest was divided between Columbus and Cleveland, the respective scenes of the Ohio State-Chicago and Navy-Notre Dame tilts. A record crowd was expected to turn out to watch the undefeated Midshipmen in their assault on the Fighting Irish. A large crowd also was promised by advance ticket sales for the Ohio State game.

Other games carded for today included: Heidelberg at Akron; Ashland at Otterbein; Baldwin Wallace at Kent; Case at Oberlin; John Carroll at Dayton; Denison at Ohio Wesleyan; Holbrook at Findlay; Kenyon at Hiram; Wooster at Mt. Union; Toledo at Muskingum; Miami at Wittenberg; Lincoln at Wilberforce; Cincinnati at Ohio U. and Emory and Henry at Marshall.

SEVERAL REST
Capital, Marietta, Xavier and Western Reserve had open dates. Capital and Marietta resting for their final game of the season next Saturday.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS RED CROSS DRIVE

"As Mayor of Circleville I hereby designate the period from November 11 to November 29 as a time given over to a review of the work of the American Red Cross and its value to the community; and I also set it aside as a time for the annual enrollment of members for the coming year."

"This office is in touch with the needs of those who have been affected by the depression of the last few years, and we have seen the ready response of the Red Cross to meet those needs. The Organization's program is so flexible that it meets emergencies and disasters of all kinds; it has also a permanent structure that is being built up year by year, to study means through which epidemics and disasters may be prevented. This community needs the permanent structure of the Red Cross as it needs the expert service which is at our command to meet whatever emergencies the coming year may bring."

"I therefore call upon former members of the Red Cross to renew their memberships during the roll call this year, and urge those who have never hitherto been members to enroll their names with those who are fighting disease and disaster and need under the banner of the American Red Cross."

SIGNED, WILLIAM B. CADY, Mayor of Circleville.

15,332 COMMUNIST VOTES ANNOUNCED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—The total unofficial communist vote cast in Ohio's election last Tuesday for I. O. Ford of Cleveland, for governor was announced today by Secretary of State George S. Myers as 15,332.

The vote compares with a total of 6,342 communist votes cast in the state two years ago and with 2,181 communist votes cast in the state four years ago. However, it marked only about one-half of the total signatures obtained by the party to obtain the listing of its candidates on the ballots this year.

among the membership. Lawyers, however, seemed to predominate. Forty-nine of the 187 members gave their occupations as attorneys and the two students further strengthened that type of representation because they are studying law.

Farmers also will have at least a small bloc in the legislature for 14 of the new members listed themselves as farmers while 10 others said they passed at least part of their time in agricultural activities.

Eleven insurance agents will be in the legislature lineup and the selling game will also be represented by six salesmen. Five other members-elect are teachers or retired teachers, three are ministers, five are real estate dealers, three physicians and four are "retired."

Three automobile dealers, two barbers, a druggist, two bankers, an author, a miller, a newspaper reporter, a stairs builder, a baker, a hotel manager, a tax agent, two manufacturers, a clerk of courts, and a county auditor.

The senate, the survey showed, will be composed of the following:

Sixteen attorneys, four insurance men, two real estate men, one executive, a farmer-banker, a law student, educator, tax agent, fraternal organizer-lecturer, an automobile dealer, an engineer, a magistrate and a printing company official.

Members-elect will not take office until January and will have no voice in the special taxation session meeting this month.

Rev. Fr. Kirwin to Talk in Chillicothe

Rev. Father J. M. Kirwin, of Port Arthur, Texas, who is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kirwin, S. Court-st., will address the Chillicothe Rotary club at its regular meeting Monday noon. Father Kirwin's subject will be "The Constitution."

3 FAIRFIELD MEN TO BE RELEASED

Three Fairfield-co men, Theodore Curtis, Thomas Randolph and Everett Stebleton, will be released from the Ohio penitentiary on December 1 if Pickaway-co officials want them; if not they will remain here until next March.

All three were sentenced as the result of an investigation into a series of chicken thefts in Fairfield and Pickaway counties.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lutz, E. Main-st., left Saturday morning for a week-end visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. Marion Lutz, Indianapolis, Ind.

4 JAILED IN URSCHER CASE

Suspects Taken in Oregon As Federal Agents Continue Drive On Crime.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 10.—Four suspects taken in a lightning fast roundup in the $200,000 Charles F. Urscher kidnapping case were in the Multnomah-co jail here today after an all night motor drive from southern Oregon where they were captured.

The prisoners signed the blotter as follows:

Mrs. Clara Davis, 39. She was identified by Department of Justice Agent C. S. Spears as Mrs. Clara Feldman, wife of Albert Bates, one of the notorious "Machine Gun" Kelly mob now serving a life term for his part in the kidnaping of the Oklahoma City millionaire.

Edward Feldman, 21, son of Mrs. Feldman.

Mrs. Betty Feldman, 18, wife of Edward.

Margaret Hurtienne, arrested with Alvin H. Scott, who is still in Roseburg hospital with a fractured skull received in an automobile accident just before federal agents swooped down on them.

they would be under no obligation to retire when White does.

Skinner's term was for four years and will not expire until July 15, 1935. The public works director is appointed annually.

Brindle's present term ends Jan. 1, two weeks before White leaves office. His re-appointment is considered a certainty.

Leading aspirants for other Davey cabinet posts included: Maj. Emil Marx, St. Marys, for adjutant general; William G. Pickrel, Dayton, for commerce director; John J. Jaster, Jr., Cleveland, for highway director.

Davey has said a woman will be appointed welfare director, succeeding John McSweeney.

Wooster. Some Democratic leaders believe he may change his mind about that, giving the welfare assignment to a man and finding some other cabinet position for an outstanding Democratic woman.

Carl Hanefeld, Ottawa, present agriculture director and Democratic state chairman, may be given a more important cabinet job, it is rumored, but Frank Henry, Marietta, fire marshal, the only other White major appointee likely to be retained by Davey, is said to be satisfied with his present job.

LOCAL CLUB PLANS TO SEND DELEGATES

At the last regular meeting the Hi-Y made plans to send delegates to the 31st Older Boys' conference which will be held at Marietta, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, December 7-8-9. Each club is permitted to send six delegates and a leader.

Approximately 850 delegates from all parts of Ohio will attend the conference. The delegates will be entertained in private homes.

George Campbell of Cincinnati, who in the past has led the singing, will be in charge of the song service again this year. Dr. Frank D. Slutz of Dayton will lead in the discussions.

At the next regular meeting the club will vote on the question of accepting the invitation to the conference and also the number of boys that will attend.

Former Tiffin Student Leads Despite Illness

One of the names appearing on the honor roll for the first six weeks was that of Caroline Michaelis, a freshman, and a first-year student in the Circleville Public schools.

Because of illness last year Caroline was unable to finish her term in the eighth grade at Tiffin, Ohio, but due to her previous scholastic achievements she was permitted to enroll as a ninth year pupil in our high school for the first six weeks of this year.

In addition to being on the honor roll Caroline was a class leader in health and general science.

Senior Class to Select Style of Invitation

From a selection of five, one style of invitation will be chosen in a Senior class vote the eighth period next Wednesday.

Five local dealers have submitted samples of invitations. In choosing, students will not be informed as to which dealer they are favoring.

Personal cards may be purchased at any firm. It is not necessary to buy the cards through the dealer receiving the order for the invitations.

Picture Contract Let

Christmas presents by the class of '35 may include photographs this year, as seniors have taken up the old custom of having their pictures taken during the pre-Christmas season.

Last year this was done in the spring.

In a class vote Monday Salyer's studio was given the contract.

Starting Monday, November 12, and continuing for three days seniors will report at 10 minute intervals at the studio for their photographs.

Members of the sixth period Junior English classes are contemplating giving a play for chapel.

It is as yet undecided whether to give the play for Thanksgiving or Christmas.

The Home Ec. club will have a weiner roast at a cabin on the Immell farm near Yellowbud in the near future.

STUDENT ELECTION NEARLY ACCURATE

Juniors, Seniors Use Sample Ballots—Disagree on Three County Offices.

Juniors and seniors of the high school held an election Tuesday and followed closely the selections of their parents.

Sample ballots were used in the voting which was conducted in the same manner as the official elections.

The gubernatorial race was decided by the small margin of four votes in favor of Martin L. Davey.

The selection of State officers corresponded exactly with those chosen in the official election.

In the county elections, however, the vote of the upper-classmen disagreed with the verdict of official balloting, but only in three offices, they were County Commissioner, County Representative, and Coroner.

CLUB ENTERTAINS SAFETY PATROL

The safety patrol scouts were entertained by the Rotarians at their club meeting last week, at which time they were assigned duties to be performed and were presented white shoulder belts and badges to designate their position.

The purpose of the scout patrol is to protect the younger children when crossing the street.

Patrolmen are stationed at the corners of Corwin and Court, Court and High, and Main and Pickaway.

Boys on patrol at the high school are: Donald Beaty, Robert Betts, Hildeburn Martin and Jack Russell.

Ira Byers and Grover Cromley are on guard at the intersection of Court and High Street while Jack Beck and Roy Elbert Morris are posted at the junction of Main and Pickaway Streets.

On Behalf of 1,750 City Pupils, We Thank You!

THE RED AND BLACK, on behalf of 1,750 Circleville public school pupils, wishes to take this opportunity to thank the voters of this city for so splendidly endorsing the continuation of the 3-mill levy. This assures the continuation of the present educational advantages of this community for the next five years.

Announce Results Of Poem Contest

The response shown in the Armistice Day Poem contest sponsored by the Red and Black was most gratifying.

"World Peace" was the subject of Alice Griner's poem which was selected for first place.

The poems written by Evelyn Ward and Marie Briner won second and third honors, respectively. All are published in this issue of the Red and Black.

Miss Mattinson, Miss Watson, and Mr. Fischer judged the contest.

Two other poem contests will follow.

"World Peace"

Old Glory's colors float above, Resplendent, wafted in the breeze, The flag true soldiers did protect, Brave soldiers here, more brave overseas.

Some million men were killed in war, As many homes that bane did blast; Far less than went returned to see That ray of light, calm Peace at last.

Those at the front whose lives were lost A sacrifice too great have made For gain of greedy, selfish men; Incredible the price they paid.

'Tis said, "War is a barb'rous thing, And savage men a harvest reap By hurting, killing fellow men. It is for same men Peace to keep."

—Alice M. Griner, 1936.

"At Dawn"

All night long the cannons roared, Bombs exploded, rockets soared. The sky was a lurid crimson wound In a muddy trench a soldier groaned.

The man, who struggled up the hill, Flung out his arms-shrieked-lay still. Like some beautiful falling star A blazing war-bird crashed afar.

The darkness scattered in the east, The raucous guns their noises ceased. With bronze and gold the sky was spanned, The majestic art of an unseen hand.

There came a note in the silent dawn, The happy lark's melodious song. A sharpnel bullet stilled its psalm. The sniper's chatter broke the calm.

—Evelyn Ward, 1936

"War and Peace"

Some men say it's an honor, To die for one's native land; But we know that war is horror, That for peace all men should stand.

Others may think it is glory, With music, parades, and fight; But we say that war is a menace, Let's strike it with all our might!

Then why should we blacken the future, With the blood of our country's youth? Let peace be our guide and our motto!

Let war be erased by Truth! —Mary Briner, 1935

Professor of Science Crowns Do-Nut Queen

HAIL to the new do-nut queen of Circleville high school!

The coronation happened unexpectedly (even for the queen) at the Hi-Y, Girl Reserve joint meeting last Monday.

The gym was very still, the silence unbroken save for the monotonous crunching of many jaws.

"Huzzah!" burst from Mr. Watts. A crowd gathered around and Mr. Watts proclaimed the news.

"Here," quoth brother Watts, "is the new and only do-nut champion of Circleville high school."

"She has eaten 24 do-nuts that I've seen. Of course, I've only seen here 15 minutes. But she is queen, for the previous record was only seven."

So our chemistry teacher, "crowned" the blushing Miss Eylvan queen of the do-nut festival.

LEGION TO SPONSOR PROGRAM MONDAY

In an assembly program held Monday at 8:30, sponsored by the American legion, Mr. Karl J. Herrmann, business manager of The Circleville Herald, will be the principal speaker.

The topic of Mr. Herrmann's address will be "Armistice Day," an appropriate subject for the occasion.

The singing of war songs such as "The Long, Long Trail," "Pack Up Your Troubles," and many others will be another feature of the assembly.

The High School orchestra, under the direction of Mr. C. F. Zaenglein, will furnish the music of the morning.

BAND BUYS NEW ARRANGEMENTS

A number of new band arrangements have been purchased by the High School band this week with part of the funds they received for their fall appearances.

The selections include The Big Parade, The Scoutmaster, Badge of Merit, and Bull Frog Horns, which are all marches; Robinson's Grand Entree March, Alma's Temple March, a trombone smear called Dixie Dandies, Ozarkian intermezzo, Operatic Gems, The Mardi Gras, and A June Rose a valse lento.

Practices will begin on the new music next week.

The High School and Junior bands will participate in the Armistice Day ceremonies Monday evening, November 12, at 7:30, when the American Legion sponsors its

Did You Know
By Pat J. Kirwin

THAT Circleville was filled with horror in December, 1877, when a new kind of racket—"body snatching," made itself felt in the city. In one week of this month, six bodies were removed from the burial grounds in High-st cemetery and never recovered, newspapers of the time report.

Editors of the local newspapers expressed the belief that the "body snatching" was the work of students in a Columbus medical college, although their opinions were never borne out by facts.

In describing a "body snatching" job on the night of Dec. 18, 1877, when two corpses were taken from High-st cemetery, The Herald related:

"The robbers dug down to the coffin and removed the outside boards covering it. Then commencing about 18 inches from the head of the corpse, they drilled 15 one-inch holes across the top of the coffin. By removing two screws at the head, it was an easy matter to take off a portion of the coffin's top and remove the body."

That Jane Coombs, one of the finest actresses ever to appear on the American stage, played a title role in a presentation of "Romeo and Juliet" here in Peck's Hall in November, 1877. Miss Coombs was the most talented actress of the 1870-80 era.

THAT a new industry, which went unharnessed in Circleville for more than 25 years, was finally discovered by a poor laborer in December, 1877. With its discovery by John Youngman, the "grease catching" business along Hargus creek was born and became a source of a handsome pecuniary profit to those engaged in it.

Operators of this business, of which Mr. Youngman became the outstanding member, in one year realized more than $2,000 profits, simply removed the grease which flowed into Hargus creek from the slaughter houses and condensed it into a new product which was sold, much of it to the owners of the slaughter houses.

Although possibly an exception to the rule, Youngman developed his "grease catching" business to the extent of realizing at least $10 a day from it. Here's how most "grease-catchers" did it:

They dammed up the waters of the sewer running from the slaughter houses to the creek and raised the banks on both sides to prevent overflowing. A cut-off at the head of a pool regulated the stage of the water. The grease and fatty particles from the "lard-house" flowed into this pool, the former rising to the top of the water where it was skimmed off and placed in barrels.

Although of an inferior quality, the grease readily sold for one and one-half cents per pound, the pork-packers themselves buying most of it. Newspaper editors estimated that thousands of dollars were lost in the preceding 25 years when the grease went unused.

That "box after box of the finest cigars disappeared and the continued 'pop-pop' of champagne bottles sounded like rifle practice" on the initial trip of a Scioto Valley railway train from Circleville to Columbus on Dec. 28, 1877. The old Scioto Valley, now the Norfolk and Western, made its first run from Portsmouth to Columbus three days after Christmas. The first train made somewhat of a record for its day, leaving the Scioto-co seat at 7:35 a. m. and arriving at the capital at 12:35 p. m. Stopping in Circleville the train took on several of the better known citizens, G. W. Gregg, John Groce, Col. S. A. Moore, W. Marshall Anderson, Judge Courtwright, W. B. Marfield.

Legislature Represents Many Lines

Business, Professional, Church and College Life Represented in Two Houses.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—Ohio's 91st General Assembly, elected at the November 6 elections, will represent a cross-section of the business, professional, and even the church life of the state.

The new elected members listed approximately different occupations and they ranged from everything to college student to college president. The latter was W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville college in Greene-co. while both the senate and the house of representatives will have a college student in their midst.

It appeared also that the Ohio Federation of Labor would have little trouble in having its legislation introduced, Ora Chapman, president of the organization, was elected a representative by the voters of Montgomery-co.

2 MAYORS NAMED

Two women also were elected to seats in the general assembly and they listed themselves simply as "home managers." Two mayors of Ohio cities also were listed.

JUDGE ORR HEADS CITIZENS LEAGUE

Kingston Native in Important Role; Lives in Euclid, Law Teacher in School.

Cleveland newspapers recently carried an excellent photograph of Judge Stanley L. Orr, formerly of Kingston and a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Orr of that village, who recently was elected president of the Citizens' league.

The notice states:

"Judge Stanley L. Orr, solicitor of the city of Euclid since 1926 is the new president of the Citizens' league. As the new president he has been requested by the board to appoint chairmen of the following committees, executive, finance, membership, city, county, state, schools, civil service, elections, taxation, candidates and issues."

"Judge Orr assumed the duties of president immediately. Herman L. Vail was the retiring president."

"The new president is associated with the law firm of Bloomfield, Orr and Vickery in the Guardian Trust building. He is 44 and lives at 3,000 Hadden-rd. Euclid. ## Butler - co Man Mentioned For Finance Positions; Status of Skinner, Brindle Discussed

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—Speculation about the cabinet appointments soon to be announced by Gov.-elect Martin L. Davey, Democrat, today kept capital political tongues wagging.

The latest report is that Quincy A. Davis, chairman of the state tax commission, may be named director of finance, a position Clarence Burk, New London, holds in the cabinet of Gov. George White.

Davis' home is in Hamilton. He is aligned with the Butler-co Democratic faction recognized by the new regime at state headquarters over the old county organization. He was said to be making a strong bid for the cabinet post.

HELPED BY POULSON

Davey was expected to announce most of his cabinet appointments by the end of next week. He and Francis Poulson, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, will devote their full time to the matter after they have filed a statement of campaign expenditures required by law.

Don K. R... for Cleveland news... a publicity director at Democratic state headquarters, turned down the job as secretary to the new governor. He tendered his resignation to remain in his present position.

After stating that he appreciated the honor of being offered the secretaryship, which came as "complete surprise," Renne... he feels he "can be of better service to Ohio Democrats" by holding his present job.

Unless they voluntarily step down and this was considered improbable, Davey will find two White cabinet hold-overs on his hands when he takes office next Jan. 14. They will be Dr. E. O. Skinner, education director, and T. S. Brindle, public works director.

Pressure may be brought upon the pair to resign and give the new governor a free hand in naming an entire new cabinet as soon as he takes office, according to a report that has gained wide circulation in political circles.

2 NOT TO RETIRE

Neither Skinner nor Brindle need accede to such demand, it should be made by the new administration, unless they wish to do so. Their terms of office are specified in the constitution, and

The New Holland fire department was summoned but too late to prevent loss.

The fire is believed to have started in the chicken house belonging to Mr. Vaughn. It swept that building, then spread to another barn belonging to Vaughn and to the barn of Charles Drake on an adjoining lot.

Drake, a poultry dealer, had just bought the 400 chickens Friday. His loss was estimated over $300 while Vaughn's was believed about that figure. Drake had just installed nine new coops in his chicken house. They, too, were destroyed.

Vaughn's automobile was badly removed from his barn. His chickens also escaped.

Teaching Children War and Peace While millions of boys and girls in the public schools of certain European countries are being indoctrinated with nationalism and compelled to go through warlike salutes and recitations, in some of the Latin-American lands, considerable progress has been made in the inculcation of generous goodwill toward people in foreign nations.

In Italy, under the system of instruction that accompanied the recent introduction of new textbooks, children approach both geography and history from the angle of Italian supremacy. The ancient war-like days of the Roman Empire are lauded and held up as an ideal. In Germany it is said that there are committees to ferret out all youth who have been guilty of slowness in manifesting military fervor.

Already however in Latin-American countries, the ideal is being realized of making textbooks serve international truth and understanding. Progress in removing inflammatory sections from history volumes has been shown in Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Argentina and Uruguay.

By the works of the flesh is meant the operation of the carnal nature. The one who chooses to live according to the impulses and desires of his natural heart will be practicing the following sins:

1. Sensuality (v. 19). The sins enumerated here are practiced in the body, and are:

a. Fornication (the word adultery is omitted from the best manuscripts). Fornication includes all sexual sins in the married and unmarried state. b. Uncleanness, which includes all sensual sins, open or secret, in thought or deed.

c. Lasciviousness, which means the wanton, reckless indulgence of the shameful practices of the flesh.

2. Irreligion (v. 20). These acts take place in the realm of the spirit, and are a. Idolatry, the worshiping of idols. b. Witchcraft or sorcery, all dealing with the occult, such as magical arts, spiritism, necromancy.

3. Sins of the temper (v. 20-21). These take place in the sphere of the mind, and are a. Hatred. b. Variance, including all strife and contention. c. Emulations, including all types of jealousy. d. Wrath, meaning bursts of passion. e. Seditions, which mean factions in the state. f. Heresies, meaning factions in the church. g. Envyings. h. Murders.

4. Sins of excess (v. 21). Drunkenness, indulgence in intoxicating liquors. b. Revellings. Acts of dissipation under the influence of liquor.

All who practice such sins shall be excluded from the Kingdom of God (I Cor. 6:10).

IV. The Fruit of the Spirit (vv. 22-24). This indicates action in the realm of life. It is the product of the Holy Spirit indwelling the believer.

1. Love to God and man.

2. Joy—glad-heartedness because of what God has done.

3. Peace with God and man.

4. Longsuffering, taking insult and injury without murmuring.

5. Gentleness, meaning kindness to others.

6. Goodness, doing good to others.

7. Faith, believing God and committing everything to him.

8. Meekness, which essentially means submission to God.

9. Temperance, self-control in all things.

Against those who thus live, there is no law.

Lesson for November 11 THE CHRISTIAN CITIZEN

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 5:13-26. GOLDEN TEXT—Then said Jesus unto him, Put up again thy sword into his place; for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword.—Matthew 26:52.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Law in One Word.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's One Law.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Be a Peacemaker.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULTS TOPIC—Thinking Peace Instead of War.

Doitless the thought of the lesson committee was to take advantage of this memorial occasion and inculcate in the hearts of the youth the spirit of peace which grows out of a heart of love. It should be borne in mind that this value can only be a practical reality as the people are brought into a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ. Love is the fruit of the Spirit made operative in the heart of the regenerate.

Paul, having shown in chapters three and four of the epistle that the believer is free from the law as a means of justification, in our present lesson makes the practical application of the doctrine. The divine method of doing away with war is to secure the regeneration of individuals.

1. Christian Freedom (vv. 13-15). 1. It is not an occasion to the flesh (v. 13). Liberty is not license. The notion that when one is free from the law he is free from constraint is wickedly erroneous. License of the flesh means not merely the indulgence of the flesh in actual sinning, but in the expression of a self-centered life.

2. By love serve one another (vv. 13-15). Freedom from the Mosaic law means slavery to the law of love. Love thus becomes the fulfillment of the law.

11. Walking in the Spirit (vv. 18-19). This discloses the secret of how a life of service to another can be lived. Walking in the Spirit results in:

1. Loving service to others (v. 13).

2. Victory over the flesh (vv. 16, 17). By flesh is meant the corrupt nature of man expressing itself in the realm of sense and self. The renewed man has two natures, between which is going on a mortal conflict. The Christian must choose between good and evil. Notwithstanding the reality of this deadly conflict, victory is sure if one chooses the good.

111. The Works of the Flesh (vv. 19-21). By the works of the flesh is meant the operation of the carnal nature. The one who chooses to live according to the impulses and desires of his natural heart will be practicing the following sins:

1. Sensuality (v. 19). The sins enumerated here are practiced in the body, and are:

a. Fornication (the word adultery is omitted from the best manuscripts). Fornication includes all sexual sins in the married and unmarried state. b. Uncleanness, which includes all sensual sins, open or secret, in thought or deed.

c. Lasciviousness, which means the wanton, reckless indulgence of the shameful practices of the flesh.

2. Irreligion (v. 20). These acts take place in the realm of the spirit, and are a. Idolatry, the worshiping of idols. b. Witchcraft or sorcery, all dealing with the occult, such as magical arts, spiritism, necromancy.

3. Sins of the temper (v. 20-21). These take place in the sphere of the mind, and are a. Hatred. b. Variance, including all strife and contention. c. Emulations, including all types of jealousy. d. Wrath, meaning bursts of passion. e. Seditions, which mean factions in the state. f. Heresies, meaning factions in the church. g. Envyings. h. Murders.

4. Sins of excess (v. 21). Drunkenness, indulgence in intoxicating liquors. b. Revellings. Acts of dissipation under the influence of liquor.

All who practice such sins shall be excluded from the Kingdom of God (I Cor. 6:10).

IV. The Fruit of the Spirit (vv. 22-24). This indicates action in the realm of life. It is the product of the Holy Spirit indwelling the believer.

1. Love to God and man.

2. Joy—glad-heartedness because of what God has done.

3. Peace with God and man.

4. Longsuffering, taking insult and injury without murmuring.

5. Gentleness, meaning kindness to others.

6. Goodness, doing good to others.

7. Faith, believing God and committing everything to him.

8. Meekness, which essentially means submission to God.

9. Temperance, self-control in all things.

Against those who thus live, there is no law.

Lesson for November 11 THE CHRISTIAN CITIZEN

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 5:13-26. GOLDEN TEXT—Then said Jesus unto him, Put up again thy sword into his place; for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword.—Matthew 26:52.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Law in One Word.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's One Law.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Be a Peacemaker.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULTS TOPIC—Thinking Peace Instead of War.

Doitless the thought of the lesson committee was to take advantage of this memorial occasion and inculcate in the hearts of the youth the spirit of peace which grows out of a heart of love. It should be borne in mind that this value can only be a practical reality as the people are brought into a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ. Love is the fruit of the Spirit made operative in the heart of the regenerate.

Paul, having shown in chapters three and four of the epistle that the believer is free from the law as a means of justification, in our present lesson makes the practical application of the doctrine. The divine method of doing away with war is to secure the regeneration of individuals.

1. Christian Freedom (vv. 13-15). 1. It is not an occasion to the flesh (v. 13). Liberty is not license. The notion that when one is free from the law he is free from constraint is wickedly erroneous. License of the flesh means not merely the indulgence of the flesh in actual sinning, but in the expression of a self-centered life.

2. By love serve one another (vv. 13-15). Freedom from the Mosaic law means slavery to the law of love. Love thus becomes the fulfillment of the law.

The renewed man has two natures, between which is going on a mortal conflict. The Christian must choose between good and evil. Notwithstanding the reality of this deadly conflict, victory is sure if one chooses the good.

111. The Works of the Flesh (vv. 19-21). By the works of the flesh is meant the operation of the carnal nature. The one who chooses to live according to the impulses and desires of his natural heart will be practicing the following sins:

the employer of the witness, did not commit suicide but was murdered.

Earl Davis, gardener at the Bern-Harlow home was the witness who insisted Bern's death was not suicide.

When investigators asked Davis the direct question: "Do you think Mr. Bern committed suicide?" the gardener answered:

"I do not think so. I know him too well. He had no reason to commit suicide. I have thought it was murder from the very beginning."

Davis then went on to reveal how he had discovered a small pool of blood near the swimming pool, in front of Bern's favorite chair on the morning of September 5, 1932, the day when the death was revealed.

The witness also told the investigators, at the time, that he had discovered other bloodspots near the swimming pool, and a broken cognac glass.

BERN NOT HAPPY

Another witness at the secret investigation was Irene Harrison, Bern's secretary. She testified she did not believe her employer was happy in his marriage to the glamorous screen beauty.

Miss Harrison's testimony, read from the transcript, was:

"Mr. Bern didn't look particularly happy at the wedding reception."

The transcript also revealed that Miss Harrison had testified:

"Jean bombarded him with letters most of them with reports of her success. The correspondence was mostly on her side. After Jean's return their friendship developed into something more intimate. By intimate I do not mean the use of the word as is meant in Hollywood."

The transcript of the evidence given by the gardener, at another point, revealed that Bern and his step-father-in-law, Mario Bello, were not friendly.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Yates and nephew, David Yates, are week-end guests of Mrs. Yates' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Marion of Hamilton.

CORN CROP LOWEST SINCE 1881, REPORT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The corn harvest, estimated by the crop reporting board at 1,381,527,000 bushels, is 45,000,000 bushels less than the forecast a month ago, and probably will be the smallest crop since 1881.

The board's report said that, as the food situation is helped by the improved prospects for potatoes and by the less important improvement in other late food crops, so the acute shortage of feed, forage and pasturage has been partially relieved in some sections by the mildness of the fall.

This has made it impossible for farmers to conserve supplies for winter use by keeping a large proportion of their stock on pasturage; than is customary at this season of the year.

Red Cross Serves Humanity

THE spirit of the nation-wide humanitarian work of the American Red Cross is typified in the 1934 poster drawn by the well-known artist, Lawrence Wilbur. The Red Cross nurse, shown protecting a small boy who is in distress, is illustrative of the role of the organization in rushing relief to victims of disaster—whether storm, epidemic, earthquake, fire, flood or other type of catastrophe. During the past year the Red Cross sent material aid to victims in 103 disasters, giving assistance to 119,000 persons.

This is but one example of service given by the Red Cross. It also serves in health conservation, through its Public Health Nursing Services employing more than 750 nurses; in safety and accident prevention, through its Life Saving and First Aid instruction; in aid to veterans and service men through its Home Service work; and in cementing the youth of the nation, through Junior Red Cross, into a national society devoted to preparing them in fitness for service, good citizenship and world friendship.

The 1934 Poster invites all men and women to join the Red Cross during the annual enrollment, so that they may participate in this vast humanitarian enterprise. Your local Chapter will welcome you as a member.

Male Vs. Female

THE fighting spirit of the male animal, according to a noted scientific observer, keeps the world in turmoil. These and similar conclusions were presented to a recent meeting of the American Society of Naturalists. It was stated that among all back-boned animals, including men, apes, dogs, etc., the fighting spirit of the male is a very disturbing element.

But in groups of insects ruled by the females, there is a smooth and peaceful form of activity. It was added, that if the female elements managed human society, life would be comfortable, but dull and unprogressive.

The non-scientific observer would probably agree that men are much more inclined toward fighting than women. Practically all armies throughout world history have been organized from the men. Somehow the women seem to have the sense to see that fighting does not accomplish results. Yet women apparently have as bitter passions and as strong dislikes and hates as men. It is frequently remarked, in regard to bitterness left behind by wars, that women cherish such harsh feelings even more than the men.

As to the idea that a society led by women would be dull and unprogressive, many will doubt that theory. They will find the women very keenly interested in social reforms. Innumerable women gather weekly in clubs to consider such progressive measures, but it would be hard to get as many men out to such meetings.

The community can not progress without the work of both sexes. The old idea that the men should do the governing, and that the women should stay at home and keep house and look after the children, is thoroughly discredited now. Not many people would care to go back to that idea.

Only one race of people pays its war debts to Uncle Sam and that's the Finnish.

And in cannibal regions, one man's meat is another man's person.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Mae West returns to the gay Naughty Nineties in her latest starring picture for Paramount, "Belle of the Nineties," coming Sunday, Monday and Tuesday to the Cliftona Theatre. "Belle of the Nineties" presents Mae West as a colorful burlesque queen who leaves St. Louis for New Orleans when the man she loves walks out on her.

Mae West, herself, wrote the original story and screen play for "Belle of the Nineties," and Leo McCarey directed the picture. The star introduces several new, typically Western songs written for her by Sam Coslow and Arthur Johnston.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

SYNOPSIS

The depression did not alter life at "Hawthorn," the comfortable, hospitable home of the Philip Rutledges. Caroline, their lovely daughter, entertained lavishly and the younger set swarmed there. Mrs. Rutledge spends most of her time abroad and her husband practices law at the club. Following her mother's return from one of her trips, Caroline gives a party. The pampered Alva notes how capably her daughter has arranged everything and wishes she could feel happy about it. Caroline's parents disapprove of their daughter's fiance, Howard Dunsen. Years ago, Howard's father bought property from Philip saying he wanted it for a leather factory and instead he went into the soap business in competition with Philip. The families have been enemies ever since. At the height of the party, Philip arrives home with the news that Henry Dunsenworth has ruined him. Howard seems genuinely shocked. Discussing the effect of the distressing news, Howard tells Caroline, "If we marry, my father will cut me off and if I know you I wouldn't please you any more to be poor than it would me." "Is that what you think of me?" Caroline flashes back. "Well, you are wrong. I'd have been happy with you anywhere before you said that." With a scornful gesture, she hands him his engagement ring. After Howard leaves, Caroline is broken-hearted. Another crushing blow falls when her father tells her "Hawthorn" is no longer theirs.

CHAPTER V

There was something in the way Alva Rutledge looked at her husband which he wanted to foreclose. The self-pity underlying his seemingly rational acceptance of their situation. It was an accusing look and in reaction to it he was driven to cruelty.

"We're leaving, at once," he told her with a bluntness that brought a protest from Caroline. "But Father, why?" "I've made a deal with the mortgagee. It costs money, but we must. We split it. He wants immediate possession. It's spring-summer rental—you know—the lake insures that."

His short sentences were so many knife stabs to Caroline, who loved her home with a conscious, all-encompassing feeling that made every stick and stone on the place dear to her.

Hawthorn House, named for its beautiful hawthorn hedges, was not so much a part of Alva's life. She was thinking of Philip. He had been weak to shield them until it came to this. It was his weakness that was directing their lives now.

The accusing look left her eyes, but tenderness did not replace it. Philip saw his expression grow blank as her thoughts became guarded.

Alva knew, in that moment, with a clarity beyond denial, that it had never been the man he loved. She loved, only the outwardly agreeable, distinguished-looking man of family traditions and financial power.

It was this then, that had been the intangible void in their married life—the real reason why they had spent so much time apart. Poor Philip—only a shell.

Her eyes fell away from his. It was only a shell she had wanted. A handsome, pleasant shell.

Caroline got up during the silence that befell them and walked to the row of windows through which bright sunshine flooded the gay breakfast room.

She threw a window open, stood looking at an old gnarled apple tree alive with blossoms and bees, echoing beyond count precious memories of her childhood.

Philip launched into his course of cruelty, now that he knew himself a failure, was unparaphrasing of those he had so benignly sought to protect by silence.

"An auction of the furnishings will salvage a few more dollars for us," he was saying. "There was no need of the servants—it's down to that, the cost of their food. I mean, we can cook our own belongings."

And I didn't want them about, listening and chattering behind our backs. Alva, who had traveled so much, and packed so little, was wondering dully what they would take on the trip—or was it a trip? Where were they going?

"Back?" she repeated rapidly. "Everything you don't want to sell," Philip amplified. "Not much of the stuff in this house will be any good to us in . . . in the new place. You can look it over and decide for yourself."

"Where, where is it?" Alva asked weakly.

Philip was suddenly evasive, repentant of his impulses to wound her. "It's a small house that's left to us," he answered, "a very small she could not be turned out of her home to live in a shanty. Caroline sought to soothe and reassure her but Alva pushed her away and continued her bitter reproaches of Philip.

In desperation Caroline turned to him pleadingly. "Surely it isn't so bad as you're letting her think, is it Father?"

"The house is not a shanty," he admitted, "but the rest is true enough. We're practically penniless so far as anything else goes."

"But it can't be for long," Caroline insisted. "Why, we're not that kind of people! I mean we're used to money—the people you know, Father—your connections in the business world—they mean money. You can make another fortune."

"Why don't you cry with her, father?" Caroline asked scornfully.

house, but it's free of mortgages." Caroline wheeled on her husband. "Why don't you actually go and see?" she asked tensely.

"The auction is set for a week from next Monday," he replied, glad to escape giving Alva further details about their new home.

He agreed to turn over the house on Saturday—the Saturday for the cataloguing. It's little enough time—advertising and all that—but the new owner was considerate to grant even that."

The new owner! Caroline felt as though a hand had closed 'round her heart.

"But this is only Thursday. How can we possibly—oh Philip you did all this without a word to us!" Alva wailed.

Her tone was unfortunate. The harassed man again sought refuge in anger. "There was nothing you could have done about it," he snapped. "It came suddenly. I was compelled to arrange everything as quickly as possible."

"Suppose we go and look at the new place," Caroline broke in. "Where is it, Father?"

Unrestrained now by kindly considerations Philip answered flatly: "On Edge Street."

Alva and Caroline waited. Edge Street meant nothing to them. Philip smiled a bitter, twisted grin. "Edge Street is on the south side of town," he explained.

This was a shock that shattered Alva's self-control completely. The south side of town! Utterly and uncompromisingly the wrong side of town. Why, she had never even been there in all the years she had lived at Hawthorn House!

Caroline had never guessed that her poised and cultured mother could become emotionally unstrung. At first it frightened her as Alva went hysterically and raved that "You don't understand," he said wearily. "I'm through, beaten. I turned every stone there was before Dunsenworth licked me."

Caroline suddenly set her teeth against further words and stood staring quietly at her parents as though she saw them for the first time after a long blindness.

They—the Rutledges of Hawthorn House—members of the fine-feathered gentry that were called "the best people." For the first time in her life she weighed that phrase. Did the best people break and wilt when trouble came to them? Did all women of refinement seek another to bear the blame when they were suddenly deprived of ease and luxury? Would all the prominent men of the town surrender with so little struggle when robbed of their affluence?

Caroline refused to believe it. Her slender shoulders lifted, unconsciously she squared them, and in her eyes was a glint of feeling such as often had been in Rutledge eyes when they saw things they did not approve, things that touched them personally.

They were her parents—this weeping woman, this dejected man—and they were failing her, destroying all that she had built up about them. Strength she had never attributed to her mother, but she had said that Alva Rutledge would carry through with grace and composure any situation that might involve her. Her father—well, he had been really a "leading" man to Caroline. It would have been impossible, before this morning, for her to picture him accepting defeat.

"Why don't you cry with her, Father?" she asked scornfully.

Alva gasped, stared at her. Philip winced.

1934 Bad for Hay Fever Sufferers

Very Few Escaped Its Many Discomforts During Past Season

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

NOT VERY long ago I wrote about hay fever, pointing out that special injections of a prepared vaccine have proved in many cases to be the ideal treatment for this annoying affliction. I advised all sufferers to consult their doctors about this treatment.

Because this has been an unusually severe season for hay fever sufferers I am again writing on this subject. I do so to stress the importance of receiving treatment at the proper time. Few persons who are sensitive to certain pollens have escaped the discomforts of hay fever this year. Just why this is so is difficult to explain, but it is probably due to certain unusual climatic and atmospheric conditions.

Seek Underlying Cause

As I have stated before, hay fever is due to a "sensitivity" to a plant, pollen or protein substance found in wearing apparel, house furnishings or food. On exposure to the sensitive substance, the sufferer complains of itching and congestion of the eyes, running nose and violent attacks of sneezing. The discomfort may be quite severe and confine the sufferer to bed.

Occasionally an attack is confused with asthma. It does resemble asthma in that the sufferer has great difficulty in breathing. Victims of hay fever, too, are often susceptible to asthma.

The hay fever victims should make every effort to determine the underlying cause of the affliction. By this I mean they should try to find out the exact substance to which they are sensitive. This is accomplished by injecting small amounts of the extracts of pollens and other suspected substances under the skin. The local reaction that follows indicates the presence or absence of sensitivity to the substance injected.

Once the offending substance is determined, relief may be obtained in most cases. Of course, the easiest time would be by change of climate during the hay fever season, but this method of escape is not available to all. But pretty definite protection is afforded by it.

Take Treatments Now

This consists of injecting an extract of the pollen, or other offending substance, in graduated doses, until "immunity" or protection against the sensitive substance is established. It is advisable to use this procedure at least a month before the expected time of the attack and it should be repeated every year. The injections must be repeated because the relief obtained is only temporary.

It is now the opinion of many specialists that more successful results would be obtained if the injections were given over a period of several months. This is the so-called "perennial form" of treatment advised for severe cases of hay fever.

If you are a sufferer from hay fever consult with your physician now. Do not wait until next year when the hay fever season appears. Since many summer cases can be traced to complicating infections and disorders, it is wise to have a thorough physical overhauling. By doing this you will maintain good health generally, and ward off further severe attacks of hay fever.

The "Texas Leaguer"

A "Texas leaguer" is defined in Webster as a fly that falls too far out to be handled by an infielder and too close in for an outfielder. The term is evidently derived from the Texas Baseball League, but the date and circumstances are obscure.

Used for Logwood

Logwood, the heart-wood of a tropical tree, is important for the dye industry, the extract being used in red dye and in weighting silk.

PATTERN 5145

If you like color and want to do some embroidery that gets done fast, try this graceful cross stitch design. It's lively for tea-cloths, in-between-cloths, scarfs and pillows. You can make a lovely wreath as shown or use the sprays, that form it, separately. Do them all in one color, in two shades of one color, or in a variety of colors.

Longest Session of Congress

The longest session of congress, last 34 days, occurred during the World war period. It was a meeting of the Sixty-fifth congress, and convened on December 3, 1917, not adjourning until November 21, 1918. This record meeting followed the special session called by President Wilson on April 2, 1917, to declare war on Germany.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

President Tells Advisers Formulate Plans to Restore Employment

WASHINGTON—The President has been spurring his inner council of advisers into acute activity on unemployment. Recently he started two of the group by brushing aside their lengthy reports on routine affairs, and demanding what plans they had to suggest for getting the back on the job.

At a meeting of the National Emergency Council he called for "plain talk" on the unemployment problem. Apparently he got a P. M. as FERA's outspoken Harry Hopkins cried from the session, he remarked to a colleague: "If the President had thrown us out, I wouldn't have blamed him."

The Democrats may be rolling in campaign funds, as claimed by Republicans, but the new standard-bearer of the National Heart Association, Dr. H. H. Hays, has paid its paper bill for months.

Officials of the Folger Shakespeare Library insist that the statue of Puck in front of their building was across from the Capitol has no significance. The inscription on the statue reads: "Lord, what fools these mortals be!" Puck's arms are stretched toward both houses of Congress.

Lush Offer

Miss Frances ("Robby") Robinson, secretary to the erstwhile NRA boss, has been offered $1 a word for three 1,000 word articles on her experiences with General Johnson and the Blue Eagle. "Robby" is telling friends she would like to accept the proposition, but is having a hard time finding sufficient leisure to do the necessary writing.

Sweepstakes Crackdown

The Post Office Department is planning to crack down on the sale of sweepstake tickets in the United States. Postal inspectors claim to have made fifteen arrests, confiscated more than 200,000 tickets on the last race. . . . At last the half nude, twenty-ton statue of George Washington done in Italy on a commission from the American Congress, has found a resting place. When first unveiled almost a century ago its Roman toga brought gasps from a notable assemblage. Twice since 1841 Congress has appropriated $5,000 to find a suitable resting place. Now the statue reposes in an obscure corner of the Smithsonian Institution behind some printing presses.

Mum Notables

Though there are no minerals tucked up on its pillow, the White Horse has a street number, 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. A remarkable group of notables came together last week in a single room: Mary Pickford, Herbert Hoover, Admiral Beatty, Grace Cushman, Mrs. Paul Lloyd George, Henry A. Wallace and Betty Ross. The room was a green one of the Department of Agriculture. The notables were carefully cultivated chrysanthemums in display in the Department's annual "mum" show. A diet of articles of the table tastes of President Roosevelt, intended to put in saying: "The President shows the heavier foods."

Deportation Laws

Immigration Commissioner D. W. MacCormack is aiming at a sweeping revision of the alien deportation laws. He hopes to persuade Congress to strengthen the Government's power to get rid of criminal aliens, also give it wider latitude in dealing with meritorious and law-abiding foreign residents.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's book, "New Frontiers," is a best seller in Washington, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco. Wallace says he is not following the sales volume of his book, nevertheless manifested much interest when told it was on the best seller lists. The elevators in the Capitol some of them in use as much as 50 years, are being replaced with modern equipment. . . . One of the proudest boasts of Kentucky's famous Senator M. M. Logan is that he has been a Sunday School attendant and member for more than 35 years. The first thing he did when he came to Washington was to assume charge of a Sunday School class.

TIGERS BEATEN 32-0

London Shows Best Team But is Handed Big Advantage by Officiating; Tigers Show Passing Offense But Fail To Cross Goal.

Penalized 15 yards on the first play of the game and thereafter receiving anything but their share of the 'breaks' from Officials Kolb, King and Carlisle, the Tigers went down to defeat by a 32-0 score at London, Friday, in the wind-up of a disastrous grid year.

Through the entire season the Tigers scored one touchdown, that against Bexley, and failed to even come close to defeating anyone.

Columbus Academy, Lancaster, Grandview, Marysville, Westerville, Delaware, Bexley and London laid back the ears of the locals.

London scored in the early minutes of the first period with a 15-yard penalty helping the cause of the Madison-co crew. A pass good for 16 yards and two end runs put Slattery over for the first goal. The kick failed.

SEASON IS ENDED

The football season is past, and what a disastrous year it was. Balked at every turn, the Tigers were able to score only one touchdown and that after the opposing team had scored a safe margin—The strange part is that practically the entire team was comprised of seniors who will not be back to don the moleskins next year—Grant, Roth, Speakman, the Watts twins, Osborne, Davis, Bell, Mader, Plum and several others who the way of graduation while Normie Coleman will be too old to play next year.

THREE IN NUCLEUS

This leaves the Tiger coach with Henry, Friley and Jackson for next year's nucleus.

2 BIG GAMES IN OHIO TODAY

State-Chicago and Navy-Notre Dame To Draw Share of National Interest.

By International News Service. Although enlivened a scorefold by the 'big-time' Ohio State-Chicago and Notre Dame-Navy clashes this afternoon, the 1934 football season in Ohio was slowly dying today.

Four teams, Bowling Green, Findlay, Hiram and Holbrook, will moth-ball their uniforms after today's clashes and join little Rio Grande's squad in the limbo of the idle.

Their retirement for the 1934 season brought home the fact that all other college teams in the state have only two or three games yet to play, counting today's encounters.

But, inversely, interest was mounting as the season waned for these November afternoons were saved by most schools for traditional foes.

There was even something more at stake at Bowling Green's game with Ohio Northern. The B-G squad will attempt to stop a Polar Bear machine that has not been defeated, tied or scored upon in 1934.

A major portion of the interest was divided between Columbus and Cleveland, the respective scenes of the Ohio State-Chicago and Navy-Notre Dame tilts. A record crowd was expected to turn out to watch the undefeated Midshipmen in their assault on the Fighting Irish. A large crowd also was promised by advance ticket sales for the Ohio State game.

Other games carried for today included: Heidelberg at Akron; Ashland at Otterbein; Baldwin Wallace at Kent; Case at Oberlin; John Carroll at Dayton; Denison at Ohio Wesleyan; Holbrook at Findlay; Kenyon at Hiram; Wooster at Mt. Union; Toledo at Muskingum; Miami at Wittenberg; Lincoln at Wilberforce; Cincinnati at Ohio U. and Emory and Henry at Marshall.

SEVERAL REST
Capital, Marietta, Xavier and Western Reserve had open dates. Capital and Marietta resting for their final game of the season next Saturday.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS RED CROSS DRIVE

"As Mayor of Circleville I hereby designate the period from November 11 to November 29 as a time given over to a review of the work of the American Red Cross and its value to the community, and I also set it aside as a time for the annual enrollment of members for the coming year."

"This office is in touch with the needs of those who have been affected by the depression of the last few years, and we have seen the ready response of the Red Cross to meet those needs. The Organization's program is so flexible that it meets emergencies and disasters of all kinds; it has also a permanent structure that is being built up year by year, to study means through which epidemics and disasters may be prevented. This community needs the permanent structure of the Red Cross as it needs the expert service which is at our command to meet whatever emergencies the coming year may bring."

"I therefore call upon former members of the Red Cross to renew their memberships during the roll call this year, and urge those who have never hitherto been members to enroll their names with those who are fighting disease and disaster and need under the banner of the American Red Cross."

SIGNED, WILLIAM B. CADY, Mayor of Circleville.

4 JAILED IN URSCHEL CASE

Suspects Taken in Oregon As Federal Agents Continue Drive On Crime.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 10.—Four suspects taken in a lightning fast roundup in the $200,000 Charles F. Urschel kidnaping case were in the Multnomah-co jail here today after an all night motor drive from southern Oregon where they were captured.

The prisoners signed the blotter as follows:
Mrs. Clara Davis, 39. She was identified by Department of Justice Agent C. S. Spears as Mrs. Clara Feldman, wife of Albert Bates, one of the notorious "Machine Gun" Kelly mob now serving a life term for his part in the kidnaping of the Oklahoma City millionaire.

Edward Feldman, 21, son of Mrs. Feldman.
Mrs. Betty Feldman, 18, wife of Edward.
Margaret Hurtienne, arrested with Alvin H. Scott, who is still in Roseburg hospital with a fractured skull, received in an automobile accident just before federal agents swooped down on them.

they would be under no obligation to retire when White does.

Skinner's term was for four years and will not expire until July 15, 1935. The public works director is appointed annually. Brindle's present term ends Jan. 1, two weeks before White leaves office. His re-appointment is considered a certainty.

Leading aspirants for other Davey cabinet posts included: Maj. Emil Marx, St. Marys, for adjutant general; William G. Pickrel, Dayton, for commerce director; John J. Jaster, Jr., Cleveland, for highway director.

Davey has said a woman will be appointed welfare director, succeeding John McSweney. Wooster. Some Democratic leaders believe he may change his mind about that, giving the welfare assignment to a man and finding some other cabinet position for an outstanding woman.

Earl Hanefeld, Ottawa, present agriculture director and Democratic state chairman, may be given a more important cabinet job, it is rumored, but Frank Henry, Marietta, fire marshal, the only other White major appointee likely to be retained by Davey, is said to be satisfied with his present job.

Legislature

among the membership. Lawyers, however, seemed to dominate. Forty-nine of the members gave their occupations as attorneys and the two students further strengthened that type of representation because they are studying law.

Farmers also will have at least a small bloc in the legislature for 14 of the new members listed themselves as farmers while 10 others said they passed at least part of their time in agricultural activities.

Eleven insurance agents will be in the legislature lineup and the selling game will also be represented by six salesmen. Five other members-elect are teachers or retired teachers, three are ministers, five are real estate dealers, three physicians and four are "laid off."

Other occupations represented include: Three automobile dealers, two barbers, a druggist, two bankers, an author, a miller, a newspaper reporter, a stairs builder, a baker, a hotel manager, a tax agent, two manufacturers, a clerk of courts, and a county auditor.

The senate, the survey showed, will be composed of the following:

Sixteen attorneys, four insurance men, two real estate men, one executive, a farmer-banker, a law student, educator, tax agent, fraternal organizer-lecturer, an automobile dealer, an engineer, a magistrate and a printing company official.

Members-elect will not take office until January, but will have no voice in the special taxation session meeting this month.

STUDENT ELECTION NEARLY ACCURATE

Juniors, Seniors Use Sample Ballots—Disagree on Three County Offices.

Sample ballots were used in the voting which was conducted in the same manner as the official elections.

The gubernatorial race was decided by the small margin of four votes in favor of Martin L. Davey. The selection of State officers corresponded exactly with those chosen in the official election.

In the county elections, however, the vote of the upper-classmen disagreed with the verdict of official balloting, but only in three offices, they were County Commissioner, County Representative, and Coroner.

CLUB ENTERTAINS SAFETY PATROL

The safety patrol scouts were entertained by the Rotarians at their club meeting last week, at which time they were assigned duties to be performed and were presented white shoulder belts and badges to designate their position.

The purpose of the scout patrol is to protect the younger children when crossing the street.

Patrolmen are stationed at the corners of Corwin and Court, Court and High, and Main and Pickaway.

Boys on patrol at the high school are: Donald Beaty, Robert Betts, Hildebrand Martin and Jack Russell.

Ira Byers and Grover Cromley are on guard at the intersection of Court and High Street while Jack Beck and Roy Elbert Morris are posted at the junction of Main and Pickaway Streets.

LOCAL CLUB PLANS TO SEND DELEGATES

At the last regular meeting the Hi-Y made plans to send delegates to the 31st Old Boys' conference which will be held at Marietta, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, December 7-8-9. Each club is permitted to send six delegates and a leader.

Approximately 850 delegates from all parts of Ohio will attend the conference. The delegates will be entertained in private homes. George Campbell of Cincinnati, who in the past has led the singing, will be in charge of the song service again this year. Dr. Frank D. Slutz of Dayton will lead in the discussions.

At the next regular meeting the club will vote on the question of accepting the invitation to the conference and also the number of boys that will attend.

Former Tiffin Student Leads Despite Illness

One of the names appearing on the honor roll for the first six weeks was that of Caroline Michaelis, a freshman, and a first-year student in the Circleville Public schools.

Because of illness last year Caroline was unable to finish her term in the eighth grade at Tiffin, Ohio, but due to her previous scholastic achievement she was permitted to enroll as a ninth year pupil in our high school for the first six weeks of this year.

In addition to being on the honor roll Caroline was a class leader in health and general science.

Senior Class to Select Style of Invitation

From a selection of five, one style of invitation will be chosen in a Senior class vote the eighth period next Wednesday.

Five local dealers have submitted samples of invitations.

In choosing, students will not be informed as to which dealer they are favoring.

Personal cards may be purchased at any firm. It is not necessary to buy the cards through the dealer receiving the order for the invitations.

Picture Contract Let

Christmas presents by the class of '35 may include photographs this year, as seniors have taken up the old custom of having their pictures taken during the pre-Christmas season.

Last year this was done in the spring.

In a class vote Monday Salzer's studio was given the contract.

Starting Monday, November 12, and continuing for three days seniors will report at 10 minute intervals at the studio for their photographs.

Members of the sixth period Junior English classes are contemplating giving a play for chapel.

It is as yet undecided whether to give the play for Thanksgiving or Christmas.

The Home Ec. club will have a weiner roast at a cabin on the Imnell farm near Yellowbud in the near future.

On Behalf of 1,750 City Pupils, We Thank You!

THE RED AND BLACK, on behalf of 1,750 Circleville public school pupils, wishes to take this opportunity to thank the voters of this city for so splendidly endorsing the continuation of the 5-mill levy.

This assures the continuation of the present educational advantages of this community for the next five years.

Announce Results Of Poem Contest

The response shown in the Armistice Day Poem contest sponsored by the Red and Black was most gratifying.

"World Peace" was the subject of Alice Griner's poem which was selected for first place.

The poems written by Evelyn Ward and Marie Briner won second and third honors, respectively. All are published in this issue of the Red and Black.

Miss Mattinson, Miss Watson, and Mr. Fischer judged the contest.

Two other poem contests will follow.

"World Peace"

Old Glory's colors float above, Resplendent, wafted in the breeze, The flag true soldiers did protect, Brave soldiers here, more brave elsewhere.

Some million men were killed in war, As many homes that bane did blast, Far less than went returned to see, That ray of light, calm Peace at last.

Those at the front whose lives were lost A sacrifice too great have made For gain, greedy, selfish men; Incredible the price they paid.

'Tis said, "War is a barbarous thing, And savage men a harvest reap By hurting, killing fellow men." It is for same men Peace to keep.

—Alice M. Griner, 1936.

"At Dawn"

All night long the cannons roared, Bombs exploded, rockets soared. The sky was a lurid crimson wound In a muddy trench a soldier groaned.

The man, who struggled up the hill, Flung out his arms-shrieked-lay still. Like some beautiful falling star, A blazing war-bird crashed afar.

The darkness scattered in the east, The raucous guns their noises ceased. With bronze and gold the sky was spanned, The majestic art of an unseen hand.

There came a note in the silent dawn, The happy lark's melodious song. A sharpnel bullet stilled its psalm, The sniper's chatter broke the calm.

—Evelyn Ward, 1936

"War and Peace"

Some men say it's an honor, To die for one's native land; But we know that war is horror, That for peace all men should stand.

Others may think it is glory, With music, parades, and fight; But we say that war is a menace, Let's strike it with all our might!

Then why should we blacken the future, With the blood of our country's youth? Let peace be our guide and our motto! Let war be erased by Truth!

—Mary Briner, 1935

Professor of Science Crowns Do-Nut Queen

HAIL! to the new do-nut queen of Circleville high school!

The coronation happened unexpectedly (even for the queen) at the Hi-Y, Girl Reserve joint meeting last Monday.

The gym was very still, the silence unbroken save for the monotonous crunching of many jaws. Suddenly an excited "Huzzah!" burst from Mr. Watts.

A crowd gathered around and Mr. Watts proclaimed the news. "Here," quoth brother Watts, "is the new and only do-nut champion of Circleville high school."

"She has eaten 24 do-nuts that I've seen. Of course, I've only been here 15 minutes. But she is queen for the previous record was only seven."

So our chemistry teacher, "crowned" the blushing Miss Evelyn queen of the do-nut festival.

The new queen left the meeting with a smile on her face and eight do-nuts in her pocket.

Girls' volley ball has been stressed at the high school this year. Miss Ryan, director of the girls' gym classes, selected the teams.

The games were held after school. The girls in each of the teams selected a captain, a referee, and a manager. The seniors had no team.

The captain of the juniors was Mildred Rowland. The Sophomores had Nana Cooper as captain. The Freshman captain was Harriet Blake.

The championship was gained by the juniors, this making it their second championship.

Juniors Not Obligated To Purchase Jewelry

At a meeting of the Junior class held Monday afternoon a final selection of a design for class rings, pins, and necklaces was made.

The jewelry will be purchased from T. K. Brunner and Son. The manufacturer is Herff-Jones and Co., Indianapolis.

The school wishes to take this means to remind the members of the Junior class, their parents and guardians, that no student is under any obligation, either moral or otherwise, to invest in class jewelry. The matter is entirely optional with individual class members.

GLEE CLUB PLANS CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The Glee club committee which met Thursday is planning a Christmas program, which is to be presented in the high school auditorium. This date will be set later in the year.

Dorothy Lyle is the chairman of the committee, which other members are: Elizabeth Dowder and Marvane Wallace. These girls were appointed by the president Lydia Given.

The supervisor of the club is Mrs. Davis.

Cheerleaders Named

Wednesday the faculty athletic committee selected the cheerleaders for the year '34-'35.

Those named were Dorothy Beaty, James Henderson, Dick Mills, and Marvane Wallace.

All are juniors with the exception of Dick Mills, who is a sophomore.

Of the four successful candidates, Marvane and Jimmy are the only two that have been cheerleaders for three years; while Dorothy and Dick were assistant cheerleaders last year.

In a test this week in the social science classes upon election fact Anne Thacher led the Junior class while Horace Gilmore, Eleanor Miller, and Ned Plum were first among the seniors.

Mildred Grose was awarded first place in an essay contest held in the eighth grade civics class on the subject, "Why We Celebrate Armistice Day."
